Towards Resilience

From providing planning resources to rural communities, to promoting the development of non-timber forest products, Fundy Model Forest has been active on several fronts during the past four years. It has held key workshops bringing together stakeholders to identify issues, brain-stormed solutions and then spearheaded projects and initiatives to solve problems facing rural communities and the forest sector. These activities have been highlighted in Towards Resilience, an 8-page summary of our work from 2007-2011 which is available on the FMF website in the publications section.
